

THE TORTOISE AND THE HARE

Though this renowned pair of racers enjoys their favorite athletic activity as often as their schedules permit, their astonishing around-the-world competition was their most famous by far. The heavily-favored Hare boasted of his quick legs, but he frittered away precious time with digressions and obstacles in his path. The Tortoise, meanwhile, refused to yield: he found the best route from point to point, and ultimately proved to be the more seasoned racer of the two.

MORAL: A tortoise plodding through his days may still from time to time amaze.
